Contributor to Illustrated London News, New York Sun, Philadelphia Ledger, Los Angeles Times, The Etude, Breeder's Gazette, Santa Fe Magazine and other newspapers and magazines. General character of writing: drama, poems. Is part Indian (Miami) and has learned the Indian principles of liberating the voice which is accomplished primarily through a series of manipulations of the head and face. These strokes sensitize the tissues by stimulating the circulation so that when the vibrating air, which is the voice, passes over them along its natural tone channel, the tissues give forth a more pleasing, resonant quality of sound. It takes only a short time to prepare voices for public use in this way and they are from two to five or six tones longer in range than those prepared in the white man's way. The play, The Eurasian, is for stage proper. CLUBS: Southern California, Woman's Press Club. Relig. denom., Episcopalian. ADDRESS: Sunrise Lodge, 8918 Holly Place, Laurel Canyon, Hollywood, Calif.

Contr. to Pearsons, Strand, etc. (England) Sat. Eve. Post, Am. Mag., Cosmopolitan. An Alaskan of Irish descent, first native Alaskan to write of that country. First home was father's trading schooner that cruised up and down the coast of Alaska. Much of educ. was derived from the traders, trappers, Indians, explorers, scientists and sea-faring men who made of father's trading post in Alaska a sort of wilderness club. Being desirous of telling the work about own country—an Alaskans Alaska—journeyed to San Francisco to write first novel "Where the Sun Swings North." Went "broke" before it was finished. Took position as secretary to Frederick O'Brien, when he was at the height of his fame after publication of his "White Shadows in the South Seas," which position was held for year and a half. Finished first novel and has been writing off and on ever since, doing the work in California home, and going back to own country when books are done for rest and adventure. SOCIETIES: P.E.N. Club. HOBBIES: cruising, collecting small totems and old books of travel; ADDRESS: 315 Hillcrest Road, San Carlos, Calif.; also Ketchikan, Alaska.

Founder of Internat. Aux. Language Assoc. in the United States, Inc. (IALA); Hon. secy. of IALA since its incorporation; planned and took part in research activities of IALA, particularly its projects of linguistic research. Conceived and formulated general idea for such research in article, "Why Should We Cut Out Our Tongues?" published in The Forum, May, 1927. Organized the first international "Meeting of Linguistic Research," a gathering of selected eminent linguists and leaders of the constructed international languages which are most widely known. From the meeting there emerged a coordinated plan of linguistic research, aimed at producing material which would be of value as the basis for the most suitable kind of international language and as a basis for general language study. IALA advocates the development and establishment of one neutral language, secondary to all national languages and in conflict with none, to be taught in educational systems throughout the world, as a common medium of communication between people of different mother tongues. In 1931 received from Syracuse University honorary degree of Doctor of Letters, presented by Chancellor Flint in special recognition of the field of scholarship of international auxiliary language. In 1937 was decorated by the King of the Belgians with the order of Leopold I. CLUBS: Colony, Cosmopolitan, Women's City (all New York). Relig. denom., Presbyterian.
